REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Board of Trustees:

As stipulated in the By-Laws, I hereby present a report of the year closing on June 30, 1932.

Changes in the Board of Trustees have been few. The term of service of Mrs. Dorothy Bridgman Atkinson closed on June 30. Mrs. Atkinson has been a very effective member, eager and interested in the business of the College, and a faithful attendant at the meetings in spite of the fact that her home is in Minneapolis. The alumnæ who have served on the Board constitute an informed group who should be, and are, a great help to the College. On the nomination of the Alumnæ Association, Mrs. Harriet Hinchliff Coverdale of the Class of 1910 was elected to succeed Mrs. Atkinson for a term of six years.

The Right Reverend Henry K. Sherrill was elected to the Board to serve for six years. Bishop Sherrill is the fourth Bishop of Massachusetts to become a member of the Board, Bishops Brooks, Lawrence, and Slattery being his predecessors.

Mr. F. Murray Forbes of Wellesley and Boston was elected for a term of four years to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Professor Wheeler, reported last year.

During the year amendments were voted to Articles I and II of the By-Laws. The amended articles are hereby given, with the changes indicated in italics:

ARTICLE I. SECTION 2. Design. The College was founded for the glory of God and the service of the Lord Jesus Christ by the education and culture of women. To realize this design it is required that two thirds of the Trustees shall be members in good standing of some evangelical church, that every teacher shall be of decided Christian character and influence, and in manifest sympathy with the religious spirit and aim with which the College was founded; and that the study of the sacred Scriptures by every undergraduate shall extend over the second year of the course, with opportunity for election of the same during the later years.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

ARTICLE II. SECTION 2. Election and Terms of Office. The Trustees shall serve for terms of six years and shall be eligible to reelection for a second term of six years, but thereafter shall not be again elected until the expiration of at least one year from the end of the second term. The members of the Board shall comprise six groups, with terms expiring respectively on June 30 of successive years. No group shall include more than four Trustees. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions, any Trustee who has not served for twelve consecutive years may be reelected a second time for such a term as will make his or her period of consecutive service not over twelve years. At each annual meeting Trustees shall be elected to succeed those whose terms expire in the following June, the successors to the Alumnae Trustees to be elected from persons nominated by the Alumnae Association and the successor to the Faculty Trustee from persons nominated by the Faculty. Within the limits of membership provided in Section 1 a new Trustee may at any time be elected and placed in any group then containing less than four members. Vacancies may be filled by the Board for the unexpired portion of the terms. Vacancies among the Alumnae Trustees shall be filled from persons nominated by the Alumnae Association and vacancies in the position of Faculty Trustee from persons nominated by the Faculty. Except in the cases of Alumnae and Faculty Trustees, no Trustee shall be elected except from persons nominated by the Committee on Nominations or by three members of the Board. Nominations shall be filed with the President of the College and notice shall be given all members of the Board at least one month before the meeting at which the election is to be held (except in the case of nominations made by the Alumnae Association, which may be voted upon at the same meeting at which the nomination is made). All elections shall be by ballot. Any Trustee may be removed by a vote of three fourths of the members present at any meeting of the Board, provided notice of the proposed action has been given at a previous stated meeting and sent in writing to every member of the Board.

The amendment to Article I was made necessary by the adoption of the new curriculum recommended by the Academic Council, and becomes effective for the class entering in September, 1932. By this curriculum the absolutely prescribed work is reduced to nine hours, a reading knowledge of either French or German is added, a certain amount of work for distribution is demanded, the concentration group is retained as well as the present standard of scholarship for graduation. A full statement of the provisions of the new curriculum will be found in the Appendix.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The year covered by this report brought to a close the active service of Margaret C. Ferguson, Susan M. Hallowell Research Professor of Botany; Anna J. McKeag, Professor of History and Principles of Education; and Helen A. Merrill, Lewis Atterbury Stimson Professor of Mathematics. Miss Ferguson entered Wellesley as a "teacher special" in 1888. During the three years of her stay she devoted the greater part of her time to botany. She left Wellesley in June, 1891, returning in 1893 as instructor in botany, and remained until 1896. She then entered Cornell University and received the B.A. degree from that institution in 1899 and the Ph.D. in 1901. In 1901 she was again appointed instructor at Wellesley, and was promoted to associate professor and finally professor in 1906. The present department is conceded to be one of the strongest botany departments in any college, and compares very favorably with those in universities. Miss Ferguson is recognized as one of the foremost botanists and is the only woman ever to have been elected president of the Botanical Society of America. The Sage Laboratory of Botany is largely, if not entirely, her creation, and is judged a model of efficiency and equipment.

Miss McKeag came to Wellesley as instructor in pedagogy in 1902, was made associate professor in 1903 and professor in 1909. In 1912 she was called to the presidency of Wilson College, a position which she resigned in 1915 to return to Wellesley as professor of the history and principles of education. She has thus served the College for twenty-seven years. She has obtained the coöperation of the various secondary schools in the vicinity, thereby securing for her students the opportunity to visit these schools. She has earned the gratitude of a large group of students, not only for instruction in the classroom, but also for friendly advice and counsel in conference.

Miss Merrill received the B.A. degree from Wellesley in 1886, and after a very successful career as teacher in secondary schools was called to Wellesley as instructor in mathematics in 1893. Except for absences for graduate study in universities of the United States and Germany, she has been in service ever since. She was promoted to associate professor in 1901 and full professor in 1915. Mathematics has always been one of the strongest departments in the College, and under the chairmanship of Miss Merrill has maintained and strengthened its position. Her students testify to the vitality and scholarly quality of her teaching.

In the Appendix will be found a list of the changes in the faculty, including the academic biography of new appointments for 1932-33. Also will be found the list of members of the faculty on leave of absence for the whole or part of the academic year 1932-33. I cannot refrain from testifying to the success of Miss Coolidge's first year as Dean of the College. Rarely has a new member of the faculty so quickly and so intelligently entered into the life of the College. The College is to be congratulated upon her appointment.

The policy of class deans has thus far been successful and, as suggested in my last report, next year Miss Knapp will be relieved of the supervision of the sophomore class. Miss Ruth H. Lindsay, Assistant Professor of Botany, has been appointed dean of the Class of 1935 for the remaining three years of its course.

When the endowment part of the Semi-Centennial Fund was raised, funds were solicited and received for certain professorships. No mention has heretofore been made of these professorships in the official publications of the College. Since a considerable number of these have now been completed, with the approval of the trustees the following assignments were made:

Myrtila Avery, Clara Bertram Kimball Professor of Art.
Olive Dutcher, John Stewart Kennedy Professor of Biblical History.
Margaret C. Ferguson, Susan M. Hallowell Research Professor of Botany.
Helen S. French, Charlotte Fitch Roberts Professor of Chemistry.
Henry R. Mussey, A. Barton Hepburn Professor of Economics.
Elizabeth Donnan, Katharine Coman Professor of Economics.
Sophie C. Hart, Class of 1898 Professor of Rhetoric and Composition.
Elizabeth W. Manwaring, Class of 1902 Professor of Rhetoric and Composition.
Martha H. Shackford, Class of 1914 Professor of English Literature.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Laura H. Loomis, Katharine Lee Bates Professor of English Literature.
Helen H. Law, Associate Professor of Greek and Latin on the Ellen A. Kendall Foundation.
Julia S. Orvis, Alice Freeman Palmer Professor of History.
Elisabeth Hodder, Class of 1915 Professor of History.
Louise Overacker, Associate Professor of Political Science on the Elizabeth Kimball Kendall Foundation.
Ruth Elliott, Mary Hemenway Professor of Hygiene and Physical Education.
Helen A. Merrill, Lewis Atterbury Stimson Professor of Mathematics.
Clara E. Smith, Helen Day Gould Professor of Mathematics.
Clarence G. Hamilton, Caroline Hazard Professor of Music.
Howard Hinners, Associate Professor of Music on the Hamilton C. Maccougall Foundation.
Louise S. McDowell, Class of 1898 Professor of Physics.
Alice H. Bushee, Helen J. Sanborn Professor of Spanish.
Ellen F. Pendleton. President on the Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial Foundation.

It is a satisfaction to know that so many old and new friends of the College are thus commemorated.

At the request of the department and with the approval of the President, "Speech" has been substituted for "Reading and Speaking" in the title of the department charged with the cultivation of the proper use of the voice.

The College takes satisfaction in the honor which has come to Mr. Campbell, Associate Professor of Art, in his appointment as Assistant Field Director of the excavation undertaken at Antioch under the auspices of a committee representing the museums of Baltimore, Princeton, and Worcester, together with the Musées Nationales de France. The College was able without serious detriment to academic work to give him leave of absence for the second semester. The concession for the excavation in this area covers a period of five years, and doubtless similar arrangements will be made for the following years.

Another appointment which gave satisfaction was the offer to Professor Bosano to take charge of the Italian school at Middlebury College in the summer of 1932, the first time a woman has been put in charge of one of these language schools.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Mr. Moses Bailey, Associate Professor of Biblical History, has received a call to an associate professorship at Hartford Theological Seminary. Mr. Bailey has been a member of our staff during the past ten years and has undoubted scholarly ability. His equipment is admirably adapted to this new position and he and Mrs. Bailey carry with them the good wishes of their many friends in Wellesley.

The College was greatly saddened by the death of two undergraduates during the year covered by this report. Margaret A. Reese, a senior, was taken ill with measles, followed by a severe case of pneumonia, and died in the college hospital on April 25. Scarcely had the College recovered from this shock when Jacqueline Peck, a sophomore, was sent to the Newton Hospital for an operation for appendicitis. Although she came through the operation successfully, an embolism occurred which resulted in her death on May 23. A death among the undergraduates is very rare, and never within the memory of the writer have two deaths occurred in the same year.

Among the significant events of the year should be mentioned the Conference Seminar of Protestants, Catholics, and Jews, held on November 10 and 11 under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians. Some three hundred attended these sessions, and all bore witness to the friendly spirit evident in the three groups. The discussions were marked by frankness and an amazing lack of prejudice.

A second event of interest was the week-end Conference on Education held in March under the management of the Alumnae Association. Some 135 alumnae were present from many parts of the country. The program of this Conference will be found in the Appendix.

As this report is being prepared, the Conference on Church Work of the Episcopal Church is in session, and the New England Institute of International Relations has already begun a ten-day conference under the management of the American Friends Service Committee. During these last days of June and the first days of July the campus is a busy place. These conferences bring many new friends to Wellesley, all of whom express great admiration of the campus and Wellesley's hospitality.

In the last report the authorization for the publication of the Wellesley Record was mentioned. This publication was issued in May. It is a tribute to Miss Laura M. Dwight and her assistants, and it is a satisfaction to report that the net cost was less than anticipated.

With the completion of the zoölogical wing, Sage Hall has been in full use during the year, and the Department of Zoölogy has rejoiced in its new and ample equipment. The College in general saw with satisfaction the disappearance of the last temporary building, and the beauty of the campus has been so enhanced by the removal of these unsightly structures that the result is an even stronger desire to see the other frame buildings removed.

The construction of Munger Hall, the new coöperative hall of residence, is progressing satisfactorily, and the building will be ready for use not later than January first, and perhaps earlier. Meantime its construction has led to the removal of the North Lodge and a near-by small dwelling house occupied by the superintendent of buildings—removals which have made an improvement of the campus in general.

An addition to the nursery school at a cost of something less than four thousand dollars was authorized by the trustees during the year, and will be ready for use in September.

The organization of Seven Women's Colleges has continued its work in behalf of these institutions. Its latest achievement has been the appeal which received wide publicity this spring. A copy of this appeal is given in the Appendix. It is significant that all of these institutions ask first for funds for scholarships. This need, always present, has become very insistent during the past year because of the financial conditions, and will undoubtedly increase during the coming year. During the year under review the College gave over $71,000 in scholarship aid to 304 individuals. In addition, the reduction in residence charges to fifteen students at Eliot and to the students at Freeman and Norumbega Houses amounted to $35,650, making a total of nearly $106,800.

On commencement day the President announced gifts and bequests in money to the College amounting to $729,000. This list is given in full in the Appendix. In view of the need of scholarships, it is a satisfaction to find in this list the following funds, of which the income is to be used for scholarships:

Arthur L. Carns Fund.
Josephine Keene Gifford Scholarship Fund.
Susanna Whitney Hawkes Fund.
John and Jane Jackson Scholarship Fund.
Samuel M. and Anna M. Richardson Fund.
Jessie Goff Talcott Fund.

The trustees of Williams College signified their desire to confer on the President of Wellesley College the honorary degree of LL.D. at their recent commencement, and the Wellesley trustees insisted upon postponing our commencement one day in order that the President might receive it. The President appreciates highly this honor conferred by a college for men.

The reports of the Dean of the College and of other administrative officers accompany this report and should be read to obtain a complete history of the year.

I cannot conclude this report without expressing once again my gratitude for the generous recognition given last October by students, alumnae, faculty, and trustees on the completion of my twenty years of service as President.

ELLEN F. PENDLETON.

June 30, 1952.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1932. During the academic year 1931-32, 310 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 650 hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 310 courses include only one course given by the Department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past four years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

The following table is based on tables like the preceding, and shows the relative size of the different departments of instruction for the last four years. The departments of Biblical History, English Composition, and Speech owe their places in the first ranks in part to the fact that they are prescribed subjects.

In September, 1931, of 7 seniors who failed to pass the general examination in June, 3 met the test and were awarded the degree of B.A. at the October meeting of the Trustees. They are ranked with the Class of 1931. Two took the examination in 1932 and received the degree in June, leaving 2 who have not yet completed the requirement.

In June, 1932, 318 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College, including those awarded in

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

October and March, 10,922. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of sixty year-hours of class work, and no student is graduated without passing a general examination on a twelve-hour major. Every student is called upon to present a unified course either in addition to the required subjects or including that work as the beginning of her plan. This restricted elective comprises twenty-one year-hours made up in one of the following ways: twelve in one subject and nine in another; nine in one and nine in another and three in a supplementary course; twelve in one department, and six in a supplementary department and three in another also supplementary; or twelve in one department, and three other courses of three hours each, all three being supplementary to the major subject. The student presents for approval her chosen plan in the spring of the second year and may revise in the third year. The purpose of this considered plan is obviously to secure a distinct objective in the last two years and to give the student some sense of mastery in one subject.

The following table shows the number of students in the Class of 1932 who passed the general examination or the comprehensive examination for Honors in each department.

The student who took Honors in English Literature was awarded one of the Trustee Scholarships and will continue her work at the University of Michigan during the coming year. The student who worked in history has been awarded a scholarship for work at the University of Grenoble by the Institute of International Education.

Of the 318 students who received the B.A. degree in June, 20 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 45 the rank of Wellesley College Honor Scholars.

The 9 juniors who spent the past year in France and the 5 who were in Germany have carried their course creditably. Of those in France, 2 were awarded medals for work done at the University of Nancy and obtained their diplomas from the Sorbonne with honors.

The total number of students registered November, 1931, was 1,559, classified as follows:

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

During the course of the year, the Faculty of Wellesley College after very thorough discussion drew up a revised set of requirements for the B.A. degree and voted that these new requirements should be made effective for the classes graduating in 1936 and thereafter. Each member of the Class of 1935 was allowed to choose whether she would plan her course in conformity with the requirements of the old or with those of the new curriculum. Forty-nine members of this class elected last May to plan their work under the provisions of the new plan.

The new requirements differ from the old in various respects. There is less prescribed work under the new plan. But the new plan requires that besides completing the equivalent of sixty hours each candidate must show that she has a reading knowledge of a modern foreign language. The new plan also provides that a student must take a certain number of courses distributed among different groups of subjects, thus securing for each student some acquaintance with methods of work and ways of thinking in various representative fields of knowledge. The twenty-one hours of work to be taken in one field of concentration, required by the provision of the new curriculum, takes the place of the restricted elective work required under the old plan. The new plan, like the old, is made out in such a way that a student has an opportunity for a considerable amount of absolutely free elective.

The Courses of Instruction, 1932-33, contains in detail the statement of the requirements of the new curriculum. Although it will be nearly three years before any students complete their work for the B.A. degree in accordance with its provisions, it is nevertheless already in effect in shaping the programs of all of the members of the Class of 1936 and those of some of the members of the Class of 1935.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit a report of the class which entered Wellesley College in September, 1931. The statistics for the class which entered Wellesley in 1930 are included as a part of the report of the Dean of the College.

The freshman class entering Wellesley in September, 1931, numbered 431 new students. The distribution of these students according to the character of the schools in which they received their preparation is as follows:

Preparation entirely in public school .....	169
Preparation entirely in private school .....	143
Preparation partly in public and partly in private schools ..	116
Preparation completed in college .....	3
Number of schools in which preparation was completed ..	240
High schools .....	124
Private schools .....	116
Colleges .....	3
Schools in New England .....	81
Schools outside New England .....	159

It is to be noted that the number of students who have had their entire preparation in high schools has increased steadily, though slightly, in the last four years. The number of high schools represented in the list of students has also increased from 102 in 1928 to 124 in 1931.

The following table indicates the method of admission used by the incoming freshman students:

Plan A (C. E. E. B. examinations) .....	33
(Regents examinations) .....	57
(C. E. E. B. and Regents) .....	2
(Canadian examinations) .....	2
	94
Plan B (New Plan) .....	337

The marked gain in the use of Plan B is again noteworthy. The question of the continuance of Plan A as a method of admission should be considered by the Board of Admission. Eighty-one per cent of the total number of candidates whose records were considered by the Board of Admission in July, 1931, took examinations under Plan B, and about the same percentage of the candidates admitted preferred Plan B.

The following subjects were offered by the entering class in the group of restricted and unrestricted electives:

No marked change in the offering for admission is evident in the group of unrestricted electives offered by the students entering in 1931.

There is perhaps no very significant change in the tendency in the elections except the small but steady increase in the number of students electing German.

The following table shows the number of students who failed to meet the academic standard in the freshman year required by the College for the past four years:

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

It is encouraging to note the fact that there are fewer students on probation both in February and June in the class entering in 1931 than in the class entering in the previous year. It is to be hoped that this decrease in students on probation is the beginning of a more satisfactory adjustment to the requirements of the standard adopted for diploma grade in 1929. We should not be satisfied, however, with having so large a proportion of our freshman class below the standard for diploma grade and the problem needs further study.

REPORT ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION

Of the 64 students in residence

- 31 were carrying a full program of 9 to 12 hours
- 33 were carrying a part-time program
- 18 held graduate tuition scholarships
- 2 held Department of Hygiene scholarships
- 2 held foreign-student scholarships
- 31 held staff appointments carrying tuition
- 12 paid tuition

The regular work of the Committee included the consideration of the credentials of candidates for admission to work for the M.A., M.S. in Hygiene and Physical Education, and Certificate of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education; the awarding of graduate tuition scholarships, and the consideration of credentials and recommendations of candidates for the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship, the Fanny Bullock Workman Scholarship, and the two Trustee Scholarships awarded to members of the senior class. The general supervision of graduate work included the consideration of students' programs presented by departments, the reading of theses, and finally the recommendation of candidates for degrees.

The Committee recommended to the Academic Council this year a change in the legislation concerning "minors" and "related courses." It was recommended that Article VIII, Section 1*b*, 1*c*, 4*a*, concerning prerequisites for graduate work in a chosen field, be revised by deleting reference to the minor subject in Section 1*c* and revising Section 4*a* to read:

"The equivalent of twelve year-hours of work is required of a candidate for the Master's degree, and may be done in one department or two related departments. The program should include, in general, no fewer than two full courses of Grade III or their equivalents, and may include a thesis embodying the results of original research, or a report or reports based on independent work. A student may be permitted to include in her program a maximum of three year-hours in a closely related subject supplementing her major work, provided that the two departments concerned agree that she is prepared to carry the course in question."

At the request of the Academic Council the Committee considered the nature of "350 courses" and their relation to a graduate program. The following recommendations in regard to this problem were brought to the Academic Council:

1. That the program of a graduate student shall include not less than 6 hours of advanced class-room work of a primarily informational nature, aside from a possible 350 course.

2. That for the exceptional student who is allowed to carry only 3 hours of work a year (a) a tentative program of 12 hours of work shall be submitted to the Committee at the outset of her period of study; and (b) that work of a purely research nature shall come toward the end of her course and not at the beginning.

3. That in cases where a department wishes to recommend a program of an exceptional nature, that department shall submit to the Committee in October, with the student's plan, a written explanation of the nature of the case.

To the important and highly complicated question of the admission of foreign students to graduate work at Wellesley, the Committee devoted considerable attention. On September 5, 1931, M. Desclos, Assistant Director of the Office National des Universités Françaises, presented to the Committee his views on certain aspects of this question. The discussion of the Committee resulted in tentative conclusions which may influence judgment but are not in any way in the nature of recommendations:

1. In regard to the question as to who should be eligible for scholarships, the Committee recommends

- a.* That maintenance scholarships for graduate work be extended to include British students;
- b.* That in general students shall be considered only if they have had at least two years of university beyond the lycée or gymnasium.

2. The basis of selection among qualified candidates.

Various suggestions were offered in regard to improved credentials and the possibilities of personal interviews. It was agreed that the credentials submitted should include evidence of good health; that credentials should be submitted at an earlier date (possibly January 15 for Oriental students and March 15 for European students); that if possible the candidates would be interviewed abroad by a representative of Wellesley College appointed by the College, who should be instructed specially to explain to the candidates the method employed in courses with which the foreign student would be expected to comply. Finally, it was agreed that after the credentials of a candidate had been received and considered with some favor, the candidate should be notified to correspond with the department in which she wishes to work in order that their approval may be based on definite knowledge of her previous work in that field. It was understood that the scholarship would not be awarded until the Graduate Committee and the department concerned had recommended the candidate.

It was further suggested by the Committee that the foreign students should be expected to carry a program of not less than nine hours' work, fulfilling the routine of the courses to the satisfaction of the department. The Committee also considered the wisdom of notifying the Office National at mid-years in case the work of a foreign student was not satisfactory.

These suggestions may well form the basis of further discussion as need arises.

The Committee continued its efforts to prepare some instructions in regard to bibliographical form for the use of students in writing theses, and as a basis of the Committee's ultimate judgment of the thesis when completed.

It was decided that the material formulated by the subcommittee on bibliography should with the coöperation of the Department of English Composition be printed in the pamphlet of that department so that it might be readily and permanently accessible to all departments.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN SARD HUGHES,

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the Department of Halls of Residence for the year 1931-32.

The College opened in September, 1931, with a slightly larger registration of resident students than had been anticipated when Townsend House was definitely closed during the preceding year. Students were temporarily lodged in all but one of the college guest rooms, and five freshmen were placed in the house at 11 Abbott Street under the charge of Miss Katharine Singer, an alumna who is also assistant in the office of the College Recorder. By Christmas it was found possible to place most of these students in the dormitories, but three guest rooms were not released to their ordinary use during the entire year.

The experiment was made this year of using Crawford, which had previously housed eight or nine unwilling sophomores, as a French House for eight students representing the three upper classes. Miss Dorothy Dennis of the French Department was made Head of the House, and the other members of the Department have been most generous and cordial in collaborating with her. The resident students agreed to speak only French in the house. A French maid was secured, and Miss Dennis was very successful in introducing suggestions of French atmosphere in the organization of the house. Two French tables were arranged in Tower Court for these eight students and six more living in Tower Court. Mme. David and Mlle. Godier took charge of these tables, and Mlle. Bruel assisted Mme. David during the second semester. The "Maison Crawford" has become a French center through the simple and gracious hospitality it has offered to both faculty and students throughout the College, who are glad to find an opportunity for French conversation. Interest was added in the regular entertainment provided on Tuesday and Thursday evenings directly after dinner. Groups of from sixteen to thirty-five gathered for a literary or artistic program on Tuesdays, and for music on Thursdays. They were entertained by the reading of a play or poem or magazine, with the singing of French songs and carols, or by the talks given by three students in the French Department, and by four members of the French faculty. The residents were enthusiastic over their enjoyment of the house and of the practical benefits of the plan. So many applications were received for 1932-33 that it has been again possible to select the members of the house with care, and the "Maison Crawford" will continue its function for another year. It seems to have earned a permanent place in the College. It is clear that its value as well as its usefulness would be increased if it could be carried on for a group of twenty students instead of for eight.

The retirement of four Heads of Houses, noted in the last report, involved several changes in the placing of our staff as well as the installation of new Heads in four dormitories. Mrs. Wheelwright took charge of Tower Court, and her place at Noanett was filled by Mrs. Alvord of Fiske; Mrs. Davidson of Clinton took over Fiske. These changes have all proved very successful, and the three houses benefited have profited by the experience gained by each Head in her previous charge.

Of the new members added to the staff, Mrs. Genevieve W. Bradley was assigned to Crofton, Mrs. Ruth E. Denio to Birches, Mrs. Margaret F. J. Johnson to Elms and Mrs. Mae B. Longley to Clinton. Miss Mary E. Cutting was made dietitian at Tower Court. In February, ill health made it necessary for Mrs. Ely to resign from Webb, and Miss Helen M. Wilkin was secured to take her place. Our group has been enlivened by the fresh enthusiasms of these women, and they have all been successful in the management of their houses. It is a source of regret that the opening of Munger Hall next year will necessarily displace some of our new Heads of Houses.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The building of Munger Hall, the new coöperative house, has been the most notable event of the year for this department. Its completion will enable us not only to house the self-help students very beautifully, but also to bring one hundred more freshmen to the campus. By January, 1933, we expect that not more than two hundred out of the four hundred and nineteen freshmen will be living off the campus.

During the summer of 1931, Eliot House was kept partly open to provide an eating place for the janitors employed by the College. It was found possible to serve food of excellent quality at a price lower than that previously paid to a restaurant, so that both the janitors and the business office gave the plan hearty endorsement. We shall expect to continue the practice as a regular policy. During the Christmas vacation the janitors were provided for at Washington. The house was open to students, but only four availed themselves of the privilege, two staying three nights each. Noanett served this purpose during the Easter vacation, caring for twenty-five girls, but of these only two remained for the whole period.

The Wellesley College Club House in Boston has provided accommodation overnight for 1,859 persons: students, 1,618 nights; alumnae, 186 nights; guests, 55 nights. During the spring vacation the Club House was well filled by alumnae and students, providing a total of 143 nights' care. In June, 1930, Miss Lilian H. Lincoln, an alumna of the College, was made Director of the Club House and has now completed two years with success. During the past year Miss Louise Heydrick, also an alumna, who was doing graduate work at Simmons, has assisted Miss Lincoln in the management of the house. In anticipation of smaller numbers, Miss Lincoln assumes the whole responsibility for the coming year.

The College has offered hospitality to an unusual number of small conferences this year, in addition to the three large groups which have met for sessions of instruction. The Alumnae Council now brings over one hundred alumnae back in midwinter. An alumnae conference on college problems proved of great interest to fifty delegates and a group of our faculty. Among the smaller groups there have been representatives of the National Student Council of the Young Women's Christian Association, and of the Boards of Admission and the Student Government organizations of the Five Colleges. These guests have brought a valuable contribution to our discussions of problems in education, religious organization, and international relations.

The entertainment of lecturers and other college guests has included thirty-seven dinner or luncheon parties in the small dining room at Tower Court, attended by four hundred and fifty-one persons. Ten dinner parties have been given in the large dining room, involving one hundred guests. Seventeen dinner parties were also given for groups of students, including all the commuters and all the transfers; also the Alumnae Daughters and House Presidents. Four teas were given in the spring for candidates for admission from neighboring schools. The College has welcomed many guests for overnight stays. Among these we are glad to count ten for trustees, one hundred and twenty-four for lecturers and preachers, and a considerable number for alumnae who came for a day or two to renew acquaintance with their Alma Mater.

The College Government Association gave much time all the year to a revision of its rules. The various proposals were debated in the Council of Heads of Houses, and it was felt that all concerned were making an effort to improve conditions rather than to impose restrictions or obtain undue liberties.

The first move was to permit smoking after meals in freshman houses, and later it was voted by Senate to permit upper-class students to smoke in their rooms until ten o'clock in the evening, except in the wooden houses, where smoking rooms were arranged for during certain hours. The situation was reviewed in June after three months' trial, and both staff and students felt the experiment to be a success.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The regulations concerning chaperonage were fundamentally altered during the spring. Seniors and juniors are now allowed to return from entertainments accompanied by another student, or by an escort, as late as one o'clock. Sophomores and freshmen are given this privilege on Saturday evenings only, after permission has been given from this office. It was understood that such freshman permissions would be strictly limited, and that an upper-class girl might be restricted if this seemed necessary. These new rules practically put an end to the chaperon system so long in vogue. The result is that most of the students who go to town for evening entertainments come back to the dormitories by one o'clock and sleep in their own rooms. This would be in itself a considerable advantage in lessening fatigue and in keeping the student under college supervision. We look forward with interest to what this year will disclose as to the practical working out of a plan which imposes large responsibility upon each student not to abuse her privileges.

It has been gratifying to observe among the students an increasing interest in Chapel services during the past year. The attendance at the daily service has been almost double that of the preceding year. The services have been led by the President of the College twice a week, by members of the faculty on three days, and by a senior student on the sixth day. The local clergymen have presided once each term, and Dr. Boynton Merrill has been most generous in taking a service every month, preaching a short sermon of practical application. The appreciation of the student body was evidenced by constantly augmented attendance on the days set for Dr. Merrill to come. College Vespers have been very well attended, and the informal vespers, arranged by the Christian Association in society houses or in dormitories on the Sunday evenings when no service is held in the Chapel, have brought out from sixty to two hundred students each time.

This has seemed in a way indicative of a changing attitude on the part of a large section of the student body. For several years we have been conscious of an increasing interest in academic work, and in effort to bring the work to a high grade. This year we have noticed that college dining halls have been well filled most of the time, in contrast to the situation in recent years, when at least twenty out of one hundred students would be absent from dinner every evening. We note also a tendency to find recreation in college activities and sports, rather than in outside events. All these developments are hailed with satisfaction by the staff of this department. We feel that the years of painful readjustment following the war are definitely giving place to a better era, as evidenced by the character of the group of students in the College.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY C. EWING.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

To the President of Wellesley College:

Except for the absence on sabbatical leave of the Librarian, the year 1931-32 has been a comparatively uneventful one, the work being conducted as far as possible along the lines laid down by Miss Roberts before her departure.

The number of volumes accessioned during the year and the amounts expended from library funds and gifts will be found tabulated at the end of this report. A comparison of these sums with the corresponding figures for recent years suggests the decrease in income of the special funds, three-fourths of one per cent, which decrease was made up by direct grants from the College. The amount available from fines also showed a decrease from the average of recent years, an indication that leaner purses have served as a reminder of "dates due."

The comparatively small sum spent by the Art Department from its Carnegie gift witnesses to the fact that, outstanding needs and those which can be easily met having been largely filled, choices and purchases are less prompt. The following are among the more important of the Art Department purchases of the year, all secured by means of the Carnegie fund: Vacquier, Anciens Châteaux de France, 11 v.; Gerstinger, Die Wiener Genesis, c. 1931, 2 v.; Racinet, L'Ornement polychrome; Vacquier, Vieux Hôtels de Paris, 19 v.; Wilpert, Die Malereien der Katakomben Roms, 2 v.; Ratta, L'Arte del Libro e della Rivista nei Paesi d'Europe e d'America, 2 v.; Fox-Davies, The Art of Heraldry.

The publication of the Bibliothèque Nationale Catalogue, which we subscribed for in 1929, has continued steadily during this year and has now reached the 112th volume. Nearly as many more may be needed to complete it. The British Museum Catalogue has proceeded more slowly, hindered, we learned, by lack of suitable clerical help. Only two volumes have been delivered during the year, but progress has already begun to hasten.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

A notable addition to the Biblical History shelves is the five-volume set of Die Religion in Geschichte und Gegenwart. Instructors in this department will use also Brockelmann's Geschichte der Arabischen Literatur and the R. C. Thompson edition of the Epic of Gilgamesh.

It is a pleasure to note the first issues in the long-needed series, Anglo-Saxon Poetic Records, from the Columbia University Press, and the beautiful facsimile reprint of the Luttrell Psalter published by the British Museum from its own manuscript. Nine volumes of the Columbia University edition of Milton have now appeared. We have this year added five volumes to the two previously on the shelves of Odell's Annals of the New York Stage.

Many of the books ordered for the German Department have been publications occasioned by the Goethe centenary, though the Fraenkel edition of Gottfried Keller's works deserves mention.

Rymer's Foedera was secured in the Sanderson twenty-volume edition, and began immediately, before it could be catalogued, to prove its value, and Cobbett's Parliamentary History of England was almost as promptly put to use. The Chronicles of Canada, in thirty-two small volumes, adds much to our resources on this country. In the spring there were added to the American history shelves the first volumes of the new edition of the works of George Washington. This edition, sponsored by the United States Government as one of its many contributions to the bicentenary and prepared by Dr. John C. Fitzpatrick, is to include many of Washington's writings hitherto uncollected.

The Script of Cologne, the tenth publication in the Mediæval Academy of America's list, illustrates a palæographical series in what is perhaps a rather unique way. Mr. Goodspeed's publication, Sidney Lawton Smith, Designer, Etcher,

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Engraver, gives the Library a truly fine book about book-plates.

Two ornithological series have very beautiful illustrations, Les Oiseaux de l'Indochine Française issued in connection with the Exposition Coloniale Internationale, a purchase, and the Album of Abyssinian Birds and Mammals from paintings by Louis Agassiz Fuertes, which was a gift of the Field Columbian Museum.

The year was a rich one for Spanish purchases because of Miss Coe's researches in Spain. She secured about three hundred and fifty "Comedias Sueltas" which were grouped into volumes and bound in Spain, also the Catálogo bibliográfico de la sección de Cervantes de la Biblioteca Nacional, Madrid, compiled by Martín del Río y Ríco; and the Diario de las Musas for the year 1790 and 1791, a very early magazine which is both rare and valuable. One hundred and thirty-nine volumes of the Scrittori d'Italia series reached the Library during the year. This set, with its wide inclusion and usually careful editing, forms a broad foundation for an Italian literature collection.

Several serial sets, whose incompleteness has long been a serious inconvenience, have been filled in: The Living Age, The Bookman, The Contemporary Review, The London Mercury, The Massachusetts Records Commission publications, The American Journal of Science, The Early Western Travels set, and Phytopathology.

A recently and carefully made street map of Boston, ordered in the spring of 1931, was received in the fall and, hung against the wall in the first stack, supplies a long urgent need.

For the Brooks Room, the important purchase was the set of George Meredith's works in the good Memorial Edition.

As in an earlier year the Library was enriched by the gift of many volumes which had belonged to Professor Katharine Lee Bates, so for this year we are privileged to record a highly valued gift from the collection of Miss Eleanor Prescott Hammond, who was connected with the English Literature Department of Wellesley College as Lecturer in the years 1922-23 and 1927-28. These, the less specialized of the books collected by a scholarly student of English, will add several rare titles to our lists and many useful ones new to us, besides giving us a large number of valuable duplicates of works of which duplicates are always needed. Such books, associated through many years with the studies, both faithful and enthusiastic, of scholarly women, are a noble and enriching gift. In this connection we may give thanks also to Miss Anna Youngman, a member of the Economics Department in the years 1908-20, who gave us among other books a copy of her own publication, Economic Causes of Great Fortunes, which we had tried for years to secure without success.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

The Botany Department has received through the kindness of Miss Elisabeth Morse the long file of Mycologia and a continuing subscription to this magazine. The General Library now has eleven volumes of Godey's Lady's Book, ten of which were presented by Miss Florence L. Ellery, '88, of the library staff, and one the gift of Miss Louise P. Holden, '25, who also gave a volume of Arthur's Home Magazine. We record also our gratitude to Miss Alice I. Perry Wood and Miss Barnette Miller of the present teaching force, who have brought copies of their own publications to us, and to the other members of the college circle who have remembered us during the year. Especially notable among these gifts is the very sightly edition of D'Annunzio's writings, sponsored by the Italian Government, which came to us in the spring through a friend of Professor Bosano's, who wished her valuable addition to our Italian shelves to be anonymous. We are also indebted to Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris (Constance Rothschild, '96) for a set of Goldoni's Comedies in forty-six volumes, published in Venice between 1823 and 1827.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The final gift from a friend through many years, Mr. Gamaliel Bradford, came to the Library from his publishers on the day after his death.

Two projects associated with recent graduates of Wellesley we record with appreciation. The father of Mrs. Elizabeth Nash Cochran, '29, planned with his daughter and Professor Emeritus Margaret Sherwood gifts to Wellesley which should gradually accumulate funds for an income of $250, to be used in providing the various dormitories with reference libraries, for the use especially of students of English literature. At the request of the President and Miss Sherwood, the Library management had this year the pleasure of making the first purchases for these Elizabeth Nash Libraries, and of preparing them for Tower Court and Freeman, the first beneficiaries of the Fund. A little later in the fall, consultation and correspondence begun by the friends of Miss Ruth Graham, '28, with Miss Roberts in the preceding year resulted in the coming of the first books given in memory of Miss Graham, books chosen with the idea of adding to our provision of recent books which should provide cultural pleasure reading for students. These friends of Miss Graham gave during the year eighteen volumes to the general collection and to the Brooks Room. The Library had been very kindly requested to suggest a list of titles, and the resulting additions to our supply of recreational reading have been most welcome.

The Ruth Graham Memorial may serve well to introduce the matter of the Carnegie Corporation's List of Books for a College Library, a list prepared at the request of the Corporation by Mr. Charles B. Shaw, Librarian of Swarthmore College, which, to quote from its preface, "might be regarded as a statement of the minimum or basic book collection of a four-year liberal arts college." The checking of this list to show this library's holdings, done during the year 1931 and the early months of 1932, seems to indicate that we are lacking in just such books as the eighteen in which the Ruth Graham plate has been placed this year—such books as Miss Roberts had in mind when she wrote for her report last year: "Even a college library should be a somewhat balanced collection, containing many books which, though not definitely within the technical field of any one department, are yet books in which college people have great interest, and which are especially valuable as collateral reading for English Composition students." This checking suggested also that we may not be providing properly for English translations of the literature of foreign countries. Mr. Shaw's list includes a far larger proportion of such translations than this library can show. The natural fear that provision of such translations will lessen interest in the original texts is probably unfounded and, in any case, it is of course true that no one student is likely to have acquaintance with all languages in which great literature has been written. Generally speaking, so far as the idea of Mr. Shaw's list and the history and aims of the Wellesley College Library are comparable, we found our showing very creditable. The time taken for the checking of this List of Books for a College Library was considerable. Whether or not such expenditure of time will prove justified is perhaps still a question.

Another connection with the general library world was given us during the year by the work of the American Library Association's Coöperative Cataloguing Committee, and this also cost us valuable time, for which, however, we fully expect to secure a return. This Committee began its activity with a systematic effort to ascertain just what cataloguing could profitably be done coöperatively—an effort financed for the Committee and partially for the libraries concerned by the Carnegie Corporation. Its work will apparently result in our securing a larger proportion of printed or photostated cards from the Library of Congress for current foreign language publications, and perhaps also for serials of the more technical sort.

The Cataloguing Department of the Library Staff has had a very busy and profitable year. The special work for the

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Zoölogy Department is now completed, i.e., the recataloguing of its collection of books and pamphlets is finished and the entire series of cards in the revised form is now available both in the General Library and in the Zoölogy Library. The plan that one member of the Library Staff should be in charge of both the Botany and Zoölogy libraries and should also be a liaison officer connecting these two collections and the General Library has functioned with smoothness and efficiency. Some recataloguing of musical scores has been done for the collection in Billings Hall, and considerable progress has been made in advisable recataloguing of material in the Art Library. Miss Wise has continued, as occasion offered, her revision of cross-references and of subject headings in order to bring them into correspondence with changed needs and with current usage. For many subjects under which the number of cards has greatly increased, an analytical scheme has been worked out by topic, locality, or chronological periods, with additional guide cards. Many periodicals and continuations, among them some complicated sets, have been checked over and more accurately catalogued. For the many-volumed "Rolls Series," the full set of Library of Congress cards was finally found to be available, and the subject cards now in the catalogue for it are invaluable to advanced students of history and literature. Many books from Miss Bates' library have now been through the cataloguers' hands and are on the shelves. The volumes on the drama are accessioned and shelved in the English Literature Room, but cards for them are not yet in the catalogue. Especially careful and detailed work has been done for some hitherto uncatalogued material in the Treasure Room. The frequent need for such scholarly work in this library is, we believe, one justification for the rather expensive bibliographical tools which have been purchased of late years, books needed also of course by the teaching force.

It is worthy of note that the recataloguing and revising mentioned above have been very greatly facilitated by the presence on the Staff of Mrs. Hirst who, though not a trained cataloguer, has shown herself markedly intelligent, accurate, and rapid. The fact that her appointment must lapse with the summer is therefore reason for much regret.

An unusual item in the year's work was the lending to other institutions of masters' theses from the Department of Hygiene, done this year from the General Library because of the Department's need of its own copies for its own consultation. Two theses in particular on the subject of posture, in which this school has done research in advance of others, were literally in almost constant demand. The cost of making an inter-library loan of this kind, aside from the postage charge paid by the borrower, is probably about fifty cents. This takes no account of the wear to which a volume, of which presumably only two copies exist, is subjected, and also ignores the possibility of illegitimate use of uncopyrighted material. A college fund for the publication of masters' theses seems increasingly needed.

The plans made by Miss Roberts for small changes in the library building to increase its convenience for the work done in it have approved themselves during the year. The additional shelving provided in crowded rooms by rearrangement and temporary cases proved adequate for the year's needs. Such provision for growth during the coming year will, however, be more difficult to arrange. The fundamental changes long looked forward to become each year more urgent.

Miss Weed, carrying out an idea discussed the previous year with Miss Pendleton and Miss Roberts, has hung on the walls of the basement corridor the most suitable of the framed portrait engravings brought to the library building from College Hall during the fire of 1914, and many who walk through this long passage now enjoy the result of her work. Place was found for others of these College Hall engravings in Founders or Green Hall classrooms or department offices. These arrangements incidentally release space for library use in the small storeroom.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

We may mention here the plan for a Week-End Book Shelf suggested by one of the Sophomores, who told us she was often too discouraged by the riches in the stack, or too pressed for time, to make her own choices for over-Sunday reading. On Friday mornings fifteen or twenty books attractive to various tastes for recreational reading are placed at the outer corner of the Order Desk. Mrs. Hunter, who understands student likings well, has made the filling of the shelf her special care, though students and other members of the staff give suggestions.

The Plimpton Room has, quite unfortunately, had little attention during Miss Roberts' absence. Four gifts to it during the year, however, are gratefully chronicled: the romances, Pamphilo di Rinaldini's Innamoramento di Ruggeretto, Guido delle Colonne's Historia di Troia in a print of 1481, and the Rinaldo innamorato, the gifts of Mr. Plimpton, and the Vitae Pontificum of Platina printed by Antony Koberger of Nürnberg in 1481, a volume from the incunabula collection of Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehrr, presented by Mrs. Dorothy Pletcher Howerth, '22.

Professor Bosano of the Department of Italian met an advanced class in the room for one appointment, to show them the various editions which the collection contains of Ariosto's Orlando Furioso. Students of Miss Bosano also worked for some days upon the two early prints of another romance, La Spagna. The room has been used by two visiting scholars, Mr. Reginald F. French, Instructor at Williams College, and Professor Walter L. Bullock of the University of Chicago, and also by Professor Emeritus Margaret H. Jackson of Wellesley.

By an error, due to counting two items twice, the number of incunabula owned by the College was reported in the Librarian's Report for 1918-19 as fifty-three instead of fifty-one. Gifts since that time, including those of the year under review, increase the number owned by the College to fifty-five.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

Early in the year Mr. Seymour de Ricci, the mediæval scholar and bibliographical expert whom the Library of Congress secured to continue its work looking toward a second list of manuscripts in the United States of dates earlier than 1600, spent a day in the Plimpton and Treasure Rooms verifying and completing the record he had already made for this library from the earlier list of such manuscripts and from the Plimpton Collection catalogue. From his wide and specialized knowledge, Mr. de Ricci was able to add to the information possessed here concerning two of our manuscripts.

During the year ending June 30, 1932, the English Poetry Collection was enriched by the addition of six autograph letters and forty-six volumes, for the most part first editions. The Treasure Room also received other outstanding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Curtiss gave a fifteenth-century Book of Hours, a manuscript of ninety-six leaves, beautifully illuminated in colors and gold on a fine quality of vellum, and bound in red morocco.

From Mr. Hugh W. Ogden we received the original manuscript of Nathan Dane's Moral and Political Survey of America (1788-1832), comprising six folio volumes and a considerable number of unbound sheets. This is an unpublished manuscript of about 3,500 pages presenting original material of interest to students of the early history of our country. Nathan Dane was a delegate to the Continental Congress and to the Hartford Convention of 1814.

Professor Chauncey Brewster Tinker of Yale University supplemented his delightful interpretation of Matthew Arnold, at the Poetry Reading in March, by a gift to the Library of a first edition of Thomas Love Peacock's Nightmare Abbey for our collection of Shelleyana.

Miss Helen A. Merrill, '86, presented an interesting document, dated July 10, 1782, and issued by Louis-Jean-Marie de Bourbon, countersigned by Ducoudray, commissioning Captain Joseph Magery of Dunkirk to engage in privateering expeditions against the English.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

A member of the Class of 1915, Mrs. William C. White (Caroline R. Taylor), secured for the English Poetry Collection a first edition of The Barretts of Wimpole Street autographed by Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne. At the time when the play was being given in Boston, Miss Cornell was invited to visit the Treasure Room and came on the afternoon of March 3, making the trip to Wellesley especially to see the Browning Collection.

This year, for the first time, photograph postcards have been made from several of our Browning treasures and from some of our illuminated manuscripts and one beautiful book binding. The money received from the sale of these cards will be used for the care of the books in the English Poetry Collection, since at present there is no fund for this purpose.

There have been the usual number of exhibitions of first editions and manuscripts in the South Exhibition Hall. The exhibition which attracted the most general interest during the year was that arranged to celebrate the bicentennial of the birth of George Washington. An account of it appeared in the College News for February 25, 1932.

The Curator takes pleasure in recording that this has been the busiest year in the history of the Treasure Room. There was an increase over the previous year in the number of classes held in the room; there were more graduate students from other colleges who came to work upon our first editions, and there were a greater number of visitors. The work of transferring the catalogue records to standard size cards is progressing satisfactorily.

Professor Palmer must rejoice to realize that already his purpose in building up the English Poetry Collection is being fulfilled—that “it should be merged in the rich life of the College.” It is making its contribution to scholarship and enriching the life of the College in many ways. We appreciate his continued interest and thoughtful planning. To him and to the generous friends whom he has interested we express our gratitude.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

The report of the Library's year would be incomplete without an account of the day which Dr. Otto Vollbehr, lover of books as well as collector of them, spent in the building. The incunabulum of 1481 presented to the College by Mrs. Howerth was Dr. Vollbehr's gift to her, a gift she valued so highly that she preferred to see it among the treasures of her Alma Mater rather than in her own library. Both donors came to Wellesley from Washington, Mrs. Howerth with the Koburger print she was giving to her college and Dr. Vollbehr bringing some of the most precious volumes of his famous collection to be shown here for a few hours. President Pendleton presided at the informal gathering of deeply interested faculty members, students, and friends from the village, who rejoiced in the generous gift and marvelled over Dr. Vollbehr's magnificent early-printed books. The presence of the generous guests, the beauty and historical interest of the books, and the pleasure of those who came to see them made this afternoon a high point of the year.

✓ The Associate Librarians in charge during Miss Roberts' absence cannot close this report without very grateful recognition of the faithfulness and efficiency of their co-members of the Staff, and would record especially their thanks to the Secretary to the Librarian, upon whose knowledge and experience so much depended.

NEW CURRICULUM BECOMING EFFECTIVE IN SEPTEMBER, 1932

Every candidate for the B.A. degree in 1936 and thereafter must complete before graduation the equivalent of sixty hours, and have in addition a reading knowledge of either French or German.

The examination to test the student's reading knowledge of French or German will be given at the beginning of the junior year. A reading knowledge of either Italian or Spanish may be accepted by the Academic Council as a substitute for a reading knowledge of French or German in cases in which students can show that such a knowledge of Italian or Spanish is needed by them as a tool for work in some particular field. Students majoring in a modern foreign language will be tested in a reading knowledge of a second language.

Of the sixty hours required for the B.A. degree a certain number is prescribed, a certain number must be elected to fulfill the requirements of work for distribution and work for concentration, the rest is free elective.

A. Prescribed work:

English Composition .....	3 hours
Biblical History .....	3 hours
Hygiene and Physical Education .....	2 hours
Speech .....	1 hour

B. Work for distribution:

Six hours in addition to the prescribed work, to be elected in each of the three groups given below. The 6 hours in each of the three groups is to be elected so as to fall 3 hours in one department and 3 hours in another. Only one beginning course in a modern language may be counted for distribution.

Group I. Art, English, French, German, Greek, Italian, Latin, Music, Spanish, Speech.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Group II. Biblical History, Economics and Sociology, Education, History and Political Science, Philosophy and Psychology.

Group III. Astronomy, Botany, Chemistry, Geology and Geography, Mathematics, Physics, Zoölogy and Physiology.

Twenty-one hours in one field of concentration, of which a major of 12 to 15 hours shall be in one department, and 9 to 6 hours shall be in courses related or supplementary to the major, but falling in one or more departments other than that in which the major is taken.

This arrangement will give:

Prescribed work .....	9 hours
Work for distribution .....	18 hours
Work for concentration, in addition to that required for distribution .....	15 hours
Absolutely free elective .....	18 hours

THE APPEAL OF THE SEVEN WOMEN'S COLLEGES

TO THE ADVISORY COUNCIL—

Mr. NEWTON D. BAKER

Mr. BERNARD M. BARUCH

Mr. JAMES BYRNE

Mr. THOMAS W. LAMONT

Mr. OWEN D. YOUNG

Dear Sirs:

Seven of the colleges for women, of which we, the undersigned, are heads, have united in a coöperative effort to bring to the attention of the public their common need for greater endowment.

They, and all other colleges for women, face a like problem. This is the lack of an aroused public sentiment in behalf of direct gifts and bequests toward the higher education of women.

In the hope of arousing such a sentiment, we are asking you, whose experience and whose sense of public affairs are undoubted, to estimate the opportunities which these Seven Colleges we head have to offer, the part which they play in the life of the country; and to endorse the specific major needs of these institutions.

We come to you at a time, we realize, of serious business depression in this country, and when the rest of the world is facing even greater difficulties. But our stringency in financial resources antedates by many years that of the world at large. Ours is chronic. It is not due to any of the factors that cause economic depressions.

It is not the present intention of these Seven Colleges to engage in any campaign for funds. It is their belief that an endorsement of their needs by you will, when made public on your authorization, have great effect for the long future in securing for the women's colleges their share of gifts and bequests. The American public has ever been generous toward those needs which it understood. With the hope that you will find it possible to help make the needs of these colleges better understood, we are,

Faithfully yours,

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

To—

Dean Gildersleeve of Barnard College
President Park of Bryn Mawr College
President Woolley of Mount Holyoke College
President Comstock of Radcliffe College
President Neilson of Smith College
President MacCracken of Vassar College

And to the Public

Upon receipt of your letter of June 1st and in accordance with your request, we, the undersigned, as an Advisory Council, have studied the resources and obligations of the Seven Women's Colleges named, Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar, and Wellesley.

We have not attempted to make an intensive educational survey; for educators generally acknowledge, we believe, that these colleges give to young women an education equivalent to that available to their brothers at the best American universities. The right, therefore, of these women's colleges to ask that they be aided to keep up their high standards cannot be questioned. The question put to us is as to how means for the maintenance of this high degree of excellence can be obtained. It is almost a truism to point out that the women's colleges have, even in times of prosperity, never received adequate financial support; whereas, even during lean years, the public's fortunate habit of giving to the men's colleges continues with comparatively little abatement.

Yet, despite limited resources, it cannot be denied that the place which women's education has come to occupy in the development of our American life has grown each year in extent and importance. Although up to 1865 there were no institutions of college rank in the United States exclusively for women, after that time progress in higher education for them was steadily forward. Little by little training and intellectual freedom for women became the modern temper.

Year by year the position and influence of women have changed. Not only have they in themselves, through their influence upon family life, added immeasurably to the cultural values of the American social fabric, but they have had a direct and far-reaching effect, in a way not foreseen, upon what the men's colleges have been able to accomplish. The reason is that women are, to a large extent, the teachers of boys in their primary and secondary school years, and upon the soundness and breadth of their training depends in turn that of the boys who are being reared to enter college.

The influence of the women's colleges has not been confined to the sphere of teaching, nor to excellence in the arts, nor to original research, though in all these fields they have made notable contributions. In the important field of sociology trained women from these colleges have made extraordinary progress. In plans for acquainting women voters with sound political information and knowledge of current political issues they have been most active. They are making their influence felt in domestic political developments, and in the fields of international understanding they are playing a worthy part.

From their earliest years, the meagre funds which these colleges possessed have been handled safely and wisely. In the way of women, the colleges "managed." They learned to work on a balanced budget. One dollar was made to do the work of three. But such methods cannot be continued indefinitely. There comes a time—and with them it has already arrived—when obsolete laboratories must be replaced with new ones, newly equipped. Old wooden dormitories must be replaced with fireproof structures. Libraries must be kept up to date. The physical life and health of the young women must be safeguarded with adequate clinical facilities. Devoted teachers who, all their lives, have accepted a fraction of a real salary, die, and worthy successors cannot be had on the same terms. Salaries must be adjusted to the needs of the modern world.

It has been suggested that in presenting the whole situation we should make a graphic comparison of the adequacy of endowment enjoyed by the men's colleges, as compared with the inadequacy of that from which the women's colleges are suffering. Such comparison, however, can hardly be made without doing a certain injustice to the men's colleges. For example, it is perfectly true that the total endowment of what might be termed the seven leading men's colleges in the East is over eight times that of the seven women's colleges for which we are appealing. On the other hand, at least four of the men's institutions may be ranked as universities, with the obvious necessity of maintaining extensive graduate schools, and professional schools of law, medicine, etc. Thus, manifestly heavier endowments for such purposes are natural and inevitable.

Avoiding, therefore, any attempt at comparisons that might be deemed invidious, we return to the simple question as to whether the American people will come to consider that the higher education of women is of prime importance. Do we want our American women educated as great teachers of our youth; to become mothers of trained taste and intelligence; to have an equipment that will enable them to serve the artistic, civic, and political interests of the community?

When the American public comes to full realization of such considerations as these, it will see to it that our women's colleges are adequately endowed. And we have not hesitated to bring up these questions at this time of financial depression, simply because it is at such times that men are apt to turn from material affairs to those of the intellect and spirit: to give themselves over to the consideration of those phases of life that yield the more solid satisfactions, the more enduring results in the life of our country.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

It is with this approach that we venture to present the situation with respect to these Seven Women's Colleges, and, for the information of such persons as may be interested now or in the future to direct their benefactions in these directions, to list as below the most urgent needs of these colleges:—

BARNARD	$1,000,000 for a scholarship fund. $1,000,000 for general endowment. This for faculty salaries, chiefly, and additions to the faculty. $1,750,000 library and lecture hall.
BRYN MAWR	$1,000,000 for increased scholarships and loan fund, and for graduate and research fellowships. $600,000 for a new building for physics and chemistry. $400,000 for a new wing for the present library. $400,000 for a new dormitory.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

VASSAR	$1,000,000 for scholarships.
	$1,000,000 for faculty salaries.
	$1,000,000 for the endowment of instruction in family and child welfare included under the name "Euthenics."
	$1,550,000 for new buildings, including a gymnasium, addition to the library, a science building, and a dormitory.
WELLESLEY	$1,000,000 for scholarships.
	$1,000,000 for general endowment for faculty salaries.
	$3,500,000 for the following new buildings: a physics-psychology laboratory and a laboratory for chemistry and geology; a new infirmary, and additions to the gymnasium, library, and art building; 4 residence halls for 350 students now housed off campus or in temporary buildings on the campus.

Each college puts aid to its students first. Each is unwilling to lose the fine type of young woman who depends on scholarship funds. In her intellectual aspirations, her struggle against material odds, and in her ability to overcome obstacles, she represents the vital purpose of these institutions.

All of the facts and figures presented in this report are available in greater detail from the office of the President of each college. It is our hope that this summing up of the present needs of these institutions may reach those men and women who are able to help them by direct gift or bequest. After a gallant half-century of pioneer endeavor, the women's colleges must not fail for lack of material support. They have proved their case; they have fully played their part in the intellectual and artistic development of this country. Their only error, perhaps, has been a too great modesty. From their first years they can rightfully claim to have sent out graduates whose research in science has benefited mankind, whose writings in prose and poetry have been distinguished, who have been significant in art, in music, in commerce and the professions. We commend their future to those who discern the truth that no other factor in the intellectual life of America is more important than the colleges for women.

REPORT
OF THE
TREASURER
JAMES DEAN
1931-1932

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

In summarizing financial transactions for the college year, the following report furnishes various items of especial interest.

Investments. The financial problems arising in the previous year became in 1931-1932 increasingly grave and urgent. Investments, which must largely determine the financial activity of the College, came to be of exceptional interest and importance. Although details of investments appear in Schedule 6, a few features, not evident on the surface, are of particular significance. Of the total securities, bonds constitute 80.8%, stocks 13.4%, cash 4%, miscellaneous items 1.8%. The increase in short-term securities is also interesting. 26.3% of the bonds mature not later than 1935. Of the total bond value, United States Government obligations constitute $1,479,968.76 or 18.7%. The market value of our securities on June 30, 1932, which has been to date the low point of market quotations, was 32.8% below book value, but it is worthy of note that September 30, 1932, found market value only 20.3% below book value.

Funds. Additions through the year to trust funds amounted to $947,563.26, of which $627,997.53 was for permanent endowment. The three large items chargeable to the principal of funds were expenditures for the completion of the Zoölogy wing of Sage Hall, for the partial construction of Munger Hall, and for extraordinary repairs and replacements met from the Reserve Fund for Depreciation.

Plant. Of the total expenditures of $509,634.92 for additions to plant 94% came from accumulated funds and gifts for this purpose. This year has marked two important steps in our building program, the completion of Sage Hall in both its Botany and Zoölogy wings, and the beginning of Munger Hall, a co-operative dormitory.

All who know the impossible conditions under which, for many years, the Botany and Zoölogy departments have carried on their work and maintained their high standards of achievement, must rejoice in the completion of Sage Hall. Carefully planned to minutest detail, the building and equipment furnish the requisite conditions for both classroom and research in an environment suited to exacting scientific needs.

Munger Hall, made possible by the generosity of Miss Jessie D. Munger of the Class of 1886, will prove a notable addition to our dormitories. It will furnish a co-operative home for students now living in Freeman and Norumbega and thus allow the College to increase, possibly to two hundred, the number of freshmen in campus houses. In order to prepare the site for Munger Hall, two old landmarks have disappeared, Ellis Cottage and North Lodge which, from early days, has marked the approach to the College from Central Street.

Income and Expenditures. As one would expect, gross income declined during the year at every major point, from students, from funds, and from miscellaneous sources, to the amount of $23,222.58. This decrease in gross income was nearly balanced by the decrease in gross expenditures of $20,062.03.

The decrease in income from students came from the fact that a greater number were unable to pay full fees. Therefore the College came to their rescue by scholarship assignments of $71,175.63, an increase of $15,017.26 from the previous year. The main factor in the decrease in income from funds was the temporary policy inaugurated in view of grave uncertainties, of increasing bank balances instead of making the usual more profitable investments. Such decrease in income from investments necessitated a corresponding decrease in the rate assigned to funds which fell in general from 5% in the previous year to 4¼% for 1931-1932. The decrease in income from miscellaneous sources was the net result of various minor changes. In the academic group salaries show an increase of $24,192.18 and academic expenses other than salaries a decrease of $3,237.24. The decrease in administrative expense of $10,958.92 reflects the more normal expenditure of this year. The cost last year in publishing the Wellesley Record made administrative expense exceptionally large.

To our reserve for depreciation we added $131,299.52. Of this sum $4,764.59 was for faculty houses and equipment and $126,464.93 for other buildings and fixed equipment. From this reserve fund we paid for extraordinary electrical and plumbing repairs, and replacements, including oil tanks, $43,165.03. We reduced by $18,619.43 the amount of endowment funds temporarily invested in dormitories, so that such investment now stands at $115,000. It is a source of satisfaction that we were able to accomplish these ends and to close the year with a surplus of $5,050.86.

Circumstances during the year have brought an increasingly heavy burden to the Treasurer and to the Finance Committee. Their care in policy and their guidance in action in the unprecedented conditions of these past months have been of inestimable value to the college.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN A. MUNROE,
Assistant Treasurer.
